

BASKET FACTORY MEMORIAL PLAQUES

Late in 2018 Mr Neil Burrell gave to the Society three Memorial Plaques which list all the Oakville Basket Company employees who served during the Second War. As can be seen from the photos below, the plaques were in very poor shape having been stored in his father's barn for several years. The wood plaques were made of red oak with lead-alloy plates nailed on. Many of the nails had failed and there was a box of plates included. The plaques were made by Strath-Craft in London, Ontario. The company is still in business and is about 100 years old.

Oakville Historical Society
since 1953

The wood had separated at the glue joins and the bottom edges were rotted. I hoped I would be able to shorten the plaques, reglue them, reproduce the decorative edge and refinish them. They had fairly large mounting holes drilled in them. I was unable to find a suitable cutter so created new plaques from quarter-sawn red oak. I used a Roman Ogee cutter on the edges, stained with two coats of Minwax Puritan Pine stain and finished with three coats of Minwax Wipe On Poly.

I cleaned up the plates with green cleaner and gave them a coat of Minwax Antique Oil. There were nail holes for 75 name plates but only 71 exist. In the top corners of the main plaque there were decorative pieces. Only one exists so I left the other one off. The plates were refastened with 1/2" x #14 brass escutcheon pins. All pins were started with drilled holes. Two of the plates are silver colour to indicate that the man was killed – there are no women listed. One death was missed.

I have been in contact with Strath-Craft to see if they have records going back that far. They have nothing older than 10 years.

It was decided to create a binder with a page for each name so that information on each man could be recorded. Information will be posted on the Society Facebook page. We hope that the missing four names will turn up. There may be more. We'll update the pages as information comes in and have replacement plates made.

These plaques are a very important piece of Oakville history. The Basket Factory was the largest employer in Town at the time.

If you can help us with missing names, information and/or photos, please email us at information@oakvillehistory.org.
